

Book Chain Project 20th Anniversary Celebration

We look forward to celebrating 20 years of collaboration across the publishing industry to build better, sustainable supply chains. What began with 10 companies in 2006 has now turned into an initiative that brings together 25 publishers, more than 300 printers and 400 papers mills from across the globe, to tackle deforestation, mitigate climate change, ensure water efficiency, and protect workers in the supply chain.

We want to celebrate that, look at the journey we've taken to get here, the impact we've had, remind ourselves why this remains so important, and look forward to the next period of collaboration.

This invite-only event will bring together 100 people, including publishers (past and present), printers, paper mills, Non-Governmental Organisations, and partner organisations.

Agenda

Please note you will be able to enter ZSL London Zoo from opening (10:00 am) for a self-guided tour of the zoo!

Session	Time
Arrival and getting settled	1:30-2:00
Our impact: Welcome, and look back at the impact of the project <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Stephanie Attal-Juncqua, Director, SLR Consulting Zoe Cokeliss Barsley, Director Of Sustainability, Oxford University Press 	2:00-2:20
Why this work remains so important: Paul Wood , author of Tree Hunting , reminds us of the critical role trees play in our lives	2:20-2:40
Panel discussion: reflections from the journey <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Alison Kennedy, former Production Director, Egmont UK Neil Everett, Head of Sustainable Sourcing, SLR Consulting Nicola Torode, Head of Operational Compliance and Sustainability, DK Simon Thresh, Global Director of Digital & Content, Capgemini Chaired by Cally Poplak, Managing Director, Harper Collins Children's 	2:40-3:40
Closing address: Sir Michael Morpurgo , Author, Poet, Playwright and Librettist, former Children's Laureate	3:40-4:00
Drinks and canapes	4:00-6:00

